AD 6/17 "Jagdwagen" with closed tarpaulin.

The AD 6/17 operated for the Swedish royal family after Ferdinand Porsche had used it for hunting trips on weekends. The AD 617 led a varied and joyful life. The aircraft company ÖFFAG in Wiener Neustadt had the bodywork made entirely of wood, including the curves on the typical Tonneau rear. The flagpoles still remind us of its time in Sweden, when the car was driving royal hunting guests through the woods.
