AD 18/32 "Engländer" with open tarpaulin.

A Russian prince commissioned a Roadster at the company Harrington in 1914 on the basis of the 3.6-liter chassis from Wiener Neustadt. He wanted to invest his cash money as quickly as possible in a stable estate and invested a down payment of 95% of the total amount. However, then came the war between, and also the revolution in Russia. Harrington could not find the prince anymore. Apart from his excellent taste, nothing reminds us of his existence.
