Diesel multiple unit ICE-TD class 605 of the Danish State Railways in IC livery.

- The model with ICE lettering and DSB logo is available for the first time
- Model with PluX22 interface available for the first time
- The model is equipped with a sound and function decoder

From 2007 to 2016 the Danish State Railways (DSB) and the Deutsche Bahn AG (DB AG) cooperated to manage the traffic between Denmark and Germany. The diesel ICE played a crucial role and were retrofitted with the Danish ATC train protection system. On the transport corridor "Vogelfluglinie" between Copenhagen and Hamburg, the trains used the ferry connection to cross the "Fehmarnbelt".
